Northern Virginia Sail & Power Squadron Cdr Francis Williamson, AP, presents Educational Proficiency Awards to Sea Scout Andrew Scheuermann, AP, and 1st/Lt J.J. Fitzgerald, JN.

Sea Scout earns prestigious award

What does it take to motivate today's teenager? Talk to Andrew Scheuermann—one of the most motivated people you will ever meet.

Scheuermann recently received the USPS Educational Proficiency Award from Northern Virginia Sail & Power Squadron. To obtain the award, he completed a number of USPS courses including Marine Electronics, Engine Maintenance, Cruise Planning and Sail.

Now one of the most decorated Sea Scouts in America, Scheuermann has also earned the Sea Scouting Quartermaster Award, Eagle Award, USPS Raymond A. Finley Jr. Sea Scout Service Award, and a number of other Sea Scouting and Venturing awards. He also placed first in the Kiwi Cup division of the Koch Sea Scout Cup regatta.

At 20, Scheuermann stays busy working at West Marine, crewing aboard the Celebrity dinner ship, and attending Northern Virginia Community College full time. He plans to turn his love of the water into a career as a mechanical engineer. —Frank Shults
